The TATA tradition, which is reflected in its mission, is "to improve the quality of life of the communities we serve globally". All Tata companies have made robust and substantial investments in communities which either address crucial local needs or contribute to a larger issue of national importance. By Tata companies working together, sharing knowledge, experiences and resources, the collective impacts of these investments can be significantly higher than the sum the impacts that the companies can make individually. The Group CSR Programmes or GCPs are a response to this belief.

Tata STRIVE is the GCP that will focus on skills development and employability. This initiative is being executed by the public charitable trust set-up by Tata Sons Ltd called "Tata Community Initiatives Trust" (TCIT) and was set up in September 2014. The mission of Tata STRIVE is to develop capacity to train 1 million youth annually for gaining employment, entrepreneurship and community enterprise. The program will not only skill young people for jobs but also provide them the necessary training to become entrepreneurs as well as enable many of them to come together to form community enterprises where they may have ownership stakes.
