REPORT

Report Summary:

Megha institute of Engineering and Technology for Women conducts its annual fest for 3 days, and in the academic year of 2016-2017, it was held between 7th and 9th of July 2016. Over the course of these 3 days faculty and students belonging to all different departments come together to interact, enjoy, learn and celebrate another successful year of the college. Every club organises their own events and competitions inviting everyone present at the gathering. This year the coding club organized their competitions under the title CODEATHON.

The club takes part in the first two days of the festival, where they organize two competitions based on technical grounds and mostly coding based. On the first day, 7th July 2016, the competition is a quick-fire round, where the MC asks a technology related question and the team that buzzes in gets to answer the question. With each correct answer, teams are awarded with points, the team with the highest score is awarded. Coming to the second day, 8th July 2016, the competition is code based. During this, participants are given a problem and they are required to create efficient code in a programming language of their choice.

The participants of two days combined were 123, 57 of which took part in the coding competition while the technical quiz attracted 84 people; there were 18 who were ready to join both the competitions. The event was anchored for two days by R Saritha with the help of the club coordinators to have a smooth and clean competitive environment for the competitors. On the last day of the event, the winners of the competition were announced and our hon'ble chief guest N.Mohan Reddy Garu presented them with a award. The conclusion to the event was given by G Kavya with a vote of thanks to all the members involved in making of the event, mentors, coordinators, staff and the beloved participants and guests.
